

EDUCATIONAL PHILOSOPHY

It should be the aim of a school to help develop each child socially, emotionally, physically, psychologically, and intellectually as much as possible.

School should be a rewarding experience in which each child should want to attend and find learning a pleasure.

The child will be considered to be an individual. We hope to prepare him/her for his/her role in an organized society. We hope to prepare him/her for his/her role in life, whatever that may be.

Adopted by the Bartlett School Board – March 22, 1982